PALMER —The borough Board of Adjustment and Appeals Monday turned down a request to reconsider its decision claiming no jurisdiction in the case of the proposed Homestead Resort in the Butte.

The request was made by the Butte Community Council, seeking a reversal of the Planning Commission's favorable recommendation to the borough assembly on a request to buy or lease 320 acres of borough-owned land to build an 18-hole golf course and subdivision in the Butte.

The appeals board initially said it did not have jurisdiction over the planning commission, and reaffirmed that position Monday.

The first of two public hearings on the application of Victor Trygstad to acquire the borough parcel is at 6 p.m. Monday, July 14, followed by a second public hearing Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The ordinance the assembly will see presently contains more than a dozen conditions relating to performance and development of the parcel, attached by the planning commission.
